I Fully Agree. It created a huuge danger to The Purebloods. People can not make choices that harm the innocent without there being severe consequences, if not physically, then spiritually.

mRNA Vaccines are a Sham. People are Being Injected with Nanotech mRNA cationic liposome 'vaccines' are nanotechnologies used to introduce non-human DNA into the bodies of adults and children turning cells into disease-causing, spike-protein bioweapon factories.

Karen Kingston
3 hr ago

When the new 'mRNA vaccines' first became available in December of 2020, the American people were told that the 'mRNA vaccines' contained lipids that served as a protective bubble around the SARS-CoV-2 mRNA that would make our bodies produce the spike protein. After being injected, our bodies would produce the spike protein and our immune system would produce antibodies so that we would NOT be able to get infected and NOT be able to infect other people with SARS-CoV-2.

In 2020/2021, everyone thought the 'mRNA vaccine' pitch sounded reasonable, safe and pretty much in alignment with other biological vaccines from the past.

The only problem is that everything we were told about what the mRNA 'vaccines' ARE is a misnomer and a lie, down to the very term mRNA vaccine. The COVID-19 injections are not mRNA vaccines. The COVID-19 mRNA shots are nanotechnology injections.

“Any police officer or member of the armed forces, who complied with the medical tyranny.....was in fact physically and spiritually invaded by a foreign aggressor. If a person in charge of defending the country from invasion, can't protect themselves from invasion.....is it possible for that compliant person to protect the citizens from invasion? The answer is NO, they can't. You can't give what you don't have. The medical tyranny of 2020 onward was also a ritual, a ritual to see who would allow invasion of their own body and soul, in order to determine who would step aside and allow an invasion of the entire nation...”

We did it &#127801;

"We" may need clarification for others reading. We refer to a self organizing group consciousness that due to having achieved synchronization do not actually have to have any meetings or such in order to come to agreement of mind and purpose. Clif High talks of Self Organizing Social Complexes, if that is an easier way to think about it.

The forces of darkness answer to "what is real" would be "our public story". Which is what their psyche is able to compute, only the shift has happened from a level that their psyche does not have access to as they don't have it in them. It has happened from outside the public story. But very real. That is why nothing works for them. Their map doesn't map reality. The public story doesn't map reality.

The forces of darkness rely on erasing playfulness, making us feel hopelessness. They have worked with great dedication for this goal for decades not the least through lowering the frequency in popular culture, movies, TV-series, music. This as what threaten them is the Divinely Playful, playful childlike energies that in a playful childlike way are effecting monumental things that will change everything.

They have had to resort to extreme censorship in a desperate attempt to silence the playful energies as many many many wonderful spirits have never given in to defeatism. This prove that they are loosing. They are not winning, they are loosing. Their retreat tactic is to obscure the perception of reality for as many as possible but they are completely impotent to erase reality.

The criminals may try to avoid justice by arresting and silencing those upright genuinely good human beings who see right through them but this will only make their own later arrests, internment and prosecution in crimes against humanity tribunals for Nürnberg Code Violations and Geneva Convention Law of War Violations all the more palatable for the general population.

Who by the way also will have seen that the judiciaries, state prosecutors, courts etc. did nothing on their own and only in a few places did some little when it was individuals who brought actions before the courts. So the general population will also readily accept the need for military grade justice and that it will be meted out according to the higher law and irrespective of what the conspirators may have put down in national legislation. (They can shout "verboden" as much as they want on their way to the gallows, hanging or firing squad, if that is their sentence.)

Ett tillrättaläggande. WHO följer med Treaty med FN. Det går inte att "gå ur" Treaty med WHO utan att gå ur FN. Vilket i och för sig är att mycket starkt rekommendera med tanke på vad de har blivit. Men det går att reservera sig för och inte gå med på de senaste WHO påfunden. Även utan att gå ur FN.

"Dangerous" to question the vaccine, according to the social minister
November 24, 2023

Opinions were divided, to say the least, during an interpellation debate between MP Elsa Widding and Social Affairs Minister Jakob Forssmed (KD) on Friday about the implications of the WHO pandemic treaty and changes to the International Health Regulations (IHR). Both were horrified by what the other said in the chamber.

On Friday, an interpellation debate was held in Parliament at the request of former SD MEP Elsa Widding.

On the other side was Minister for Social Affairs Jakob Forssmed.

This concerned the WHO's pandemic funding and amendments to the International Health Regulations.

However, they hardly had the same understanding of what the regulations mean.

According to Forssmed, it is about increased cooperation and exchange of information on global health threats in order to "take the necessary measures to protect the population, to protect life and health". "This is what the negotiations are about and not," said Forssmed, "about giving the WHO Secretary-General the authority to decide on Swedish pandemic management."

– "Neither Sweden nor other member states would accept that," the Social Affairs Minister read from his paper. "However, there is a consensus among WHO's 194 member states that the COVID-19 pandemic exposed several shortcomings in the international community's ability to manage a health crisis of a global character."

Jakob Forssmed also argued that there are many misconceptions about the process of the planned changes to the WHO.

– "These negotiations are about creating an effective and modern international regulatory framework that will strengthen the ability to prevent and manage new pandemics. We should all agree that this is urgent. It has been very, very problematic for the world to go through a pandemic. And clearly, if we had been able to act in a better way, if we had better information earlier from countries that chose to act in a way that is not reasonable in times of a pandemic, the world's response could also have been better. And that is what we want to achieve, to protect life and health."

Elsa Widding disagreed.

– "I understand that you have not read these proposals," she argued in plenary. "The Minister claims that the new pandemic law or a revised IHR will not give the WHO Secretary-General the power to decide on Swedish pandemic management. This is exactly what the revision of the IHR aims at and nothing else, to give the WHO increased powers, a possibility to decide on the Member States during pandemics but also between pandemics. This is what makes so many lawyers very, very concerned. Sweden is responsible for taking the measures that the WHO decides and also without delay if we sign this."

According to Widding, all the lawyers she spoke to say the opposite of what the Minister of Social Affairs claims.

– "I wish you were right, but I find it hard to believe," she said.

Widding also wondered what the WHO is supposed to do that is so good, because their recommendations during COVID-19 were not very successful, she pointed out.

{ ... Continues ... }

But they both had completely different views.

– "It is very difficult to respond to some of these claims here in the parliament and I think it is quite remarkable that they are presented in this way, said Forssmed."

– "'Medical tyranny' is extremely difficult to respond to. It is of course completely unthinkable that we would have vaccines on the Swedish market that are not tested and approved. And that this would be required of us because of some negotiations in the WHO. That is of course not correct."

He did not buy into Widding's criticism of the "vaccine", arguing that "vaccines have been extremely important in the fight against COVID-19" and have "protected an enormous number of people's lives".

– "And for it to be questioned in this way is not only remarkable, it is also dangerous," he said. "Because it means that people may refrain from taking vaccines that can protect them from severe disease and death."

That the vaccine protects life and health is, according to the Minister of Social Affairs, "unequivocal".

– "The Nobel Prize in Medicine will now be awarded to those who came up with the method that was so important for us in dealing with this pandemic, which allowed us to open up societies and return to a more normal life," Forssmed continued.

– "It is strange to hear this questioned in this way here in the Parliament."

However, these answers did not satisfy Elsa Widding's concerns.

– "I am also completely shocked by what you say," she replied.

Elsa Widding wondered if Jakob Forssmed could put his hand on a Bible and guarantee that the Swedish people will retain their sovereignty and self-determination. No bible was ever produced, but the Social Affairs Minister assured her that this is not about a "world government" that will decide over the Swedish people, but we can make the laws and rules we want.

"Farligt" att ifrågasätta vaccinet, enligt socialministern
24 november, 2023

Det rörde minst sagt delade meningar under en interpellationsdebatt mellan riksdagsledamoten Elsa Widding och socialminister Jakob Forssmed (KD) på fredagen om vad WHO:s pandemifördrag och ändringar av det internationella hälsoreglementet (IHR) innebär. De båda var förfärade över vad den andra sade i kammaren.

Under fredagen genomfördes en interpellationsdebatt i riksdagen på begäran av den tidigare SD-riksdagsledamoten Elsa Widding.

På andra sidan stod socialminister Jakob Forssmed.

Detta gällande WHO:s pandemifördrag och ändringar av det internationella hälsoreglementet.

Men de båda hade knappast samma uppfattning om vad bestämmelserna innebär.

Enligt Forssmed handlar det om ett ökat samarbete och utbyte av information om globala hälsohot för att kunna "vidta de åtgärder som krävs för att skydda befolkningen, att skydda liv och hälsa". Det är det förhandlingarna handlar om och inte, sade Forssmed, om att WHO:s generalsekreterare skulle få befogenhet att besluta om svensk pandemihantering.

– Det skulle ju varken Sverige eller andra medlemsländer acceptera, läste socialministern från sitt papper. Däremot finns det ju en samsyn bland WHO:s 194 medlemsländer att covid-19-pandemin blottade flera brister i det internationella samfundets förmåga att hantera en hälsokris av global karaktär.

Vidare hävdade Jakob Forssmed att det finns många missuppfattningar kring processen om WHO:s planerade förändringar.

– De här förhandlingarna handlar om att få till ett ändamålsenligt och modernt internationellt regelverk som ska stärka förmågan att förebygga och hantera nya pandemier. Det torde vi ju vara överens om, att det här är angeläget. Det har ju varit väldigt, väldigt problematiskt för världen med att genomgå en pandemi. Och det är klart, hade vi kunnat agera på ett bättre sätt, hade vi haft bättre information tidigare från länder som valde att agera på ett sätt som inte är rimligt i tider av pandemi, hade också världens svar kunnat vara bättre. Och det är ju det vi vill åstadkomma, för att skydda liv och hälsa.

Elsa Widding höll inte med.

– Jag förstår att du inte har läst de här förslagen, hävdade hon i kammaren. Ministern påstår att den nya pandemilagen eller ett reviderat IHR inte kommer ge WHO:s generalsekreterare befogenheter att besluta om svensk pandemihantering. Det är ju exakt det här som revideringen av IHR syftar till och ingenting annat, att ge WHO ökade befogenheter, en möjlighet att bestämma över medlemsstaterna vid pandemier men också mellan pandemier. Det är det här som gör så många jurister väldigt, väldigt bekymrade. Sverige är ansvarigt att vidta de åtgärder som WHO bestämmer och dessutom utan dröjsmål om vi skriver under det här.

Enligt Widding säger samtliga jurister hon pratat med motsatsen till vad socialministern påstår.

– Jag önskar att du har rätt men jag har lite svårt att tro det, påpekade hon.

Widding undrade också vad det egentligen är som WHO ska göra som är så bra, för deras rekommendationer under covid var ju inte särskilt lyckade, poängterade hon.

{ ... Fortsätter ... }

LegeNet, 11/25/23 2:58 PM UTC
In reply to LegeNet

{ ... Fortsättning ... }

Men de båda hade helt olika uppfattningar.

– Det är väldigt svårt att bemöta en del av de här påståendena här i riksdagen och jag tycker det är rätt anmärkningsvärt att de framförs på det här sättet, sade Forssmed.

– "Medicinsk tyranni", det är oerhört svårt att bemöta. Det är naturligtvis helt otänkbart att vi skulle ha vaccin på den svenska marknaden som inte är prövade och godkända. Och att detta skulle krävas av oss på grund av några förhandlingar i WHO. Det är naturligtvis inte korrekt.

Han köpte inte Widdings kritik mot "vaccinet", utan hävdade att "vaccin har varit oerhört viktiga i bekämpandet av covid-19" och har "skyddat oerhört många människors liv".

– Och att det ifrågasätts på det här sättet är inte bara anmärkningsvärt, det är också farligt, påpekade han. Därför det innebär att människor kanske avstår från att ta vaccin som kan skydda dem från svår sjukdom och död.

Att vaccinet skyddar liv och hälsa är, enligt socialministern, "otvetydigt".

– Nu kommer dessutom Nobelpriset i medicin att delas ut till de som kom på den metod som var så viktig för oss i hanteringen av den här pandemin, som gjorde att vi kunde öppna samhällena och återgå till ett tidigare mer normalt liv, fortsatte Forssmed.

– Det är märkligt att höra detta ifrågasättas på detta sätt här inne i riksdagen.

Dessa svar stillade dock inte Elsa Widdings oro.

Blog Export: Intelligentsians blockering, <http://blog.lege.net/>

– Jag är också helt chockerad av det du säger, svarade hon.

Elsa Widding undrade om Jakob Forssmed kunde lägga sin hand på en bibel och garantera att svenska folket kommer behålla sin suveränitet och sitt självbestämmande. Någon bibel kom aldrig fram, men socialministern bedyrade att detta inte handlar om någon "världsregering" som kommer bestämma över svenska folket, utan vi kan stifta de lagar och regler vi själva vill.

Me: This is a test for police, etc, for with whom they stand; with the criminal Cabal or with the people. Either way, this will be recorded and taken into account going forward.

3rd December 2023 Update:

To the people of New Zealand.

Liz Gunn has asked me, Logan Courtney, Deputy Leader, to pass on a few messages:

First and foremost, Liz wants everyone to know that she is safe and in a remote location and is uncontactable for the next week.

Please pass Liz's video message onto the world and every person you know through every form of communication from voice to electronic.

Please contact the leaders of the current government; Christopher Luxon, Winston Peters, David Seymour, Shane Reti as well as Mark Mitchell, Minister of Police and ask them to call off the police currently surrounding the two addresses where the whistle blowers reside, also remind them that the world is watching, this is their test of leadership and ask them "are they going to represent international interests like Jacinda Ardern's tyrannical government or will they fulfill their election promises to return NZ to Kiwis?"

Liz is the leader of a political party and a journalist; she was doing her job to stand up for the people of New Zealand. The Police, and the health industry, acting in this way is a political crime.

I want to also remind everyone that Liz is a mother and grandmother, that she has sacrificed everything for New Zealand, working hard to begin New Zealand Loyal for not just our future but all of our children and grand-children's future.

As the old saying goes "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing", so the question is "New Zealand what are you going to do about this injustice", I ask that you stand with these truth bringers and take back your country peacefully by first contacting our leaders, police and media, failing that, please contact the Governor General to intervene.

I thank you in advance New Zealand.

Bobby Kennedy explains why the world have been in a bioweapons arms race since the patriot act.

He also mentions that all bio weapons development require to in parallel develop vaccine as the own troops are always hit first.

Pfizer must feel like it's been one damned thing after another lately. In a year packed with horrible news for the jabs (not to mention poor jab recipients), yesterday saw a critical new discovery of jab problems, possibly the worst and most damning yet.

How bad was it? It was so bad that, even though I almost never make predictions anymore, I will predict this: The FDA will be forced to withdraw the mRNA covid shots because of this study.

I'm not even joking about that.

Our investigation begins with yesterday's Telegraph article about a new study headlined, "One in four who had Moderna or Pfizer Covid jabs experienced unintended immune response." (<https://archive.ph/sJ3ic#selection-2303.61-2307.8>)

The explosive, new, peer-reviewed, gold-standard study is already making news even though it was only published yesterday, December 6th. And it published in the well-respected Journal Nature, featuring the multisyllabic, incomprehensible title, "N1-methylpseudouridylation of mRNA causes +1 ribosomal frameshifting." (<https://nature.com/articles/s41586-023-06800-3>)

This study features twenty authors. There is safety in numbers.

Don't let the mind-numbing title fool you. If Kevin McKernan's SV40 monkey-virus discovery tossed a hand-grenade into Pfizer's machine-gun bunker, this carefully-written study dropped a tactical nuke on Pfizer's Pacific Fleet anchoring at Hawaii. The study's implications are vast.

Since the science is a little thick — no, it's very thick — I'll start by telling you the end first.

Here's how the Telegraph's article defensively described the study's results. Keep in mind, they were down-playing the results, as much as they possibly could:

No adverse effects were created by the error, data show, but Cambridge scientists found such vaccines were not perfect and sometimes led to nonsense proteins being made instead of the desired Covid "spike", which mimics infection and leads to antibody production (and) an immune system flare-up.

The new study, published in Nature, found this occurred in around 25-30 per cent of people.

Hahaha! The vaccines were "not perfect!!" Omygosh! Please, stop! Hahahaha! It hurts to laugh! Whew. Alright, I'm okay now. Onwards.

Here's the simple version: the researchers discovered that a necessary ingredient in the mRNA vaccines (1-methylpseudouridine) has an unfortunate side-effect: it messes up RNA translation one-third of the time by slipping a gear every so often. Instead of making the intended spike protein, these tiny mistranslational slip-ups create ... other things. Other kinds of proteins. New ones.

And there's no way at all to predict what kind of protein it will create. It's stochastic (completely random).

The 'vaccine' creates stochastic proteins one third of the time. In one-third of cells, not people, like the Telegraph again mis-reported. There are trillions of mRNA packages in each shot. So — unless I'm missing something — what the study is saying, without actually saying it, is that this is happening inside every single jab recipient.

And it's happening a lot.

Now, you know I hate to sound negative, but I'm guessing there would have been a lot more vaccine hesitancy had people known that trillions of their cells would soon randomly be creating bizarre, novel proteins, and for an indeterminate and possibly long time.

That sounds a lot like Russian roulette.

Nobody could possibly know what kinds of problems this kind of thing might cause. Mostly because they've never tested anything like this before, except maybe down in the lowest level of the secret dungeons under Dr. Mengele's laboratory.

Do not let them get away with it when the citizen volunteers will inevitably argue, "hey, they were new vaccines, of course we're going to learn some unexpected things about them. Nobody expected them to be perfect."

Um, NO. They called it "misinformation" when we said the shots were "experimental." They said the shots were the best-tested, safest vaccines in human history. They said we learned all the long-term side effects within the first 90 days — and guess what? There were none. No long term side effects.

Honestly, sometimes it's infuriating how stupid our experts are.

Continuing on, the Telegraph first claimed 'no adverse effects' were caused by the 'nonsense proteins,' but then turned right around and said they cause an unintended immune system flare-up. That is an adverse effect, morons. But second, they are just slapping the old "no evidence" gag around. In this case, the Telegraph's "no evidence" argument is an archaic, tired-out, well-known logical fallacy called the "Argument from Ignorance."

All they are really saying is, we don't know what the adverse effects might be.

I don't want to quibble, but saying "There ARE NO adverse effects" is a rather different thing from saying "we DON'T KNOW what kind of adverse effects this might cause."

For an idea of just how mendacious the Telegraph's article was, here is the precise sentence from the study that the Telegraph used when it falsely reported that "No adverse effects were created by the error, data show":

Although there is no evidence that frameshifted products in humans generated from BNT162b2 vaccination are associated with adverse outcomes, for future use of mRNA technology it is important that mRNA sequence design is modified to reduce ribosome frameshifting events, as this may limit its future use for applications that require higher doses or more frequent dosing, such as the in vivo production of hormones.

See? There was not any 'data' proving that the vaccines were safe, as the Telegraph claimed. The study only said there was "no evidence of an association with adverse events." Which certainly could be just because nobody's looked for an association with adverse events yet.

The study, which is so technical it can be barely understood by lay readers (if at all), was marvelously written. At first, a reader mistakenly concludes the study is a giant apologia for the jabs. Every chance they got, the twenty authors optimistically described the bright future of mRNA technology — once, that is, this one teensy, awkward little (unfixable) wrinkle has been ironed out of the formula. That's how the study passed peer review and got published.

The scientists are learning how to play the game.

Now, remember. This study — and all the news reports about it — constantly reassures pharma bigwigs and depressed jab-takers that there's no evidence of adverse effects from the random 'nonsense proteins,' the randomized proteins that 25% of their transfected cells are now making. Nothing to worry about!

But check out this very telling quote from one of the study authors, Anne Willis, who is a very upbeat kind of lady. She found that the problem just creates a very exciting opportunity for jab makers to fix it:

(Professor Anne Willis, Director of the MRC Toxicology Unit) adds it is very exciting that there is a way to fix the issue, which "massively de-risks this platform going forward".

Screech! Hold on, wait just a minute! Slam on the brakes for a second. If fixing the issue "massively de-risks the (mRNA) platform" ... that means ... there are massive risks to be fixed. And that quote, ladies and gentlemen, gave away the entire game, right there, and showed us what the study authors are really thinking.

They are appalled, just like we are. And they got the message out the only way they could, smuggled across the peer-reviewed border in a hollowed-out teddy bear of exciting opportunities.

The offending ingredient, 1-methylpseudouridine, is a type of pseudouridine used in the jabs to stabilize the mRNA payload. We've discussed this chemical before. Its first unintended side-effect was making the mRNA too stable, which we think is why the pseudouridine-enhanced mRNA lasts for months (or longer), instead of disappearing within a few hours, like natural mRNA does, and like the FDA mendaciously claimed it would when they were first pushing the jabs.

Ironically, they just gave the Nobel prize to the two scientists who figured out how to make artificially long-lasting mRNA using 1-methylpseudouridine. (<https://nature.com/articles/d41586-023-03046-x>) But yesterday's peer-reviewed study — written long before Pfizer got to the Nobel committee — concluded there is a fatal flaw with using 1-methylpseudouridine. The authors' suggestion to fix it? Use natural mRNA.

But since natural mRNA won't work, as it is metabolized too quickly, the real message from the study is: mRNA technology is inherently unsafe, and poses massive unknown risks. Who knows what are the risks of millions or trillions of cells creating random proteins all day long? Remember the old "infinite number of monkeys" argument? It goes: Given enough monkeys and typewriters, some chimp somewhere will randomly type up Hamlet before you even get around to handing out bananas for lunch.

Who wants to roll the dice that trillions of 'random proteins' never ever come up with something harmful? Or is it even more likely the whole unexpected process is all harmful? Random results in a drug should be unacceptable, even if they only create conditions for autoimmunity.

Thus, the FDA must pull these drugs.

Interview. The liberal government/ Anita Anand /Health Canada are wholly evil and need to be held accountable. They were told bluntly by Pfizer in the contract that the Covid jab may destroy people's lives/health and may not even work. More jaw dropping agreements within the contract other than just that are also exposed. For some bizarre reason Canada signed that IF OTHER countries sue Pfizer then CANADA has to pay for it! What the hell is going on?

Tune in this Thursday for a groundbreaking episode of VSRF LIVE, featuring Steve Kirsch in what promises to be the most powerful and revealing discussion to date. In this episode, Steve will engage in a candid conversation with 10 medical practitioner whistleblowers, shedding light on the comprehensive web of misinformation surrounding the Covid pandemic. These courageous individuals will share firsthand accounts, challenging the narrative that hospitals were overwhelmed when, in fact, they were empty. Shockingly, it will be revealed that over 90% of COVID deaths were attributed to treatment protocols rather than the virus itself. The discussion will explore early and inpatient treatments that could have significantly reduced the death rate. Astonishingly, insights from an ICU doctor suggest that COVID vaccines may have increased all-cause mortality in hospitals by up to 80%.

Furthermore, revelations about how EMR systems may have contributed to misconceptions about the "pandemic of the unvaccinated" will be exposed. Join us for an eye-opening exploration into the untold aspects of the pandemic, where medical professionals share their experiences and express the ongoing challenges they face in speaking out. Don't miss this pivotal episode that aims to uncover the truth behind the unprecedented events of the past few years.

Varför är det amerikanska systemet the Only bottom up form of government in the world?

Blog Export: Intelligentsians blockering, <http://blog.lege.net/>

Det är i grunden för att i det systemet som det var skapat så är individen suveränen. Ingen lag som tar ifrån individen suveränitet kan där vara laglig, men givetvis har förrädare verkat mycket länge även där. Amerika är en idé. Lyssna på Paul Schmid ovan. Det är en idé vars tid nu har kommit att introduceras i resten av världen. Slut med slaveri!

Nedan citat från tidigare och andra texter belyser detta.

"The general misconception is that any statute passed by legislators bearing the appearance of law constitutes the law of the land. The Constitution is the supreme law of the land, and any statute, to be valid, must be in agreement. It is impossible for a law which violates the Constitution to be valid. This is succinctly stated as follows: "All laws which are repugnant to the Constitution are null and void." Marbury vs. Madison 1803, 5 U.S. (2 Cranch) 137, 174, 176." (p. 2, The Military and Constitution Regulated Inauguration: President Trump by Derek Johnson, <https://thedocuments.info/Payload/Part%20One%20Covert%20Operation%20by%20Derek%20Johnson%20v4.pdf>.)

"America is an idea. It's not just a slogan or papers in the Smithsonian. It came via people like me and those I know who served for the right intentions and love this Nation. The only way to change it is = Molon Labe from us.

Congress and the Media for MANY years, all have misconstrued and twisted the Origin, History, and the contexts of the Declaration of Independence, the Flag, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, forgetting Marbury vs. Madison 1803, and have used reverse psychology on people to create chaos and division to fit their narratives and personal agendas, thanks to the Corporation of 1871. Their motto was "create a problem there's already a solution to." They died November 8, 2016." (p. 7, Ibid.)

LegeNet note: Molon labe (Ancient Greek:  $\mu\omicron\lambda\omicron\eta\lambda\alpha\beta\epsilon$ ;  $\mu\omicron\lambda\omicron\eta$ , romanized: mol&#7761;n labé), meaning 'come and take [them]'.

Det svenska systemet har inslag av naturrätt eller common law och skulle faktiskt rent teoretiskt kunna reformeras, tankar om mänskliga rättigheter fanns tidigt här, som i Olaus Petris domarregler med att lagen ska vara för det menigas bästa och punkt 42 där som låg att ingen kan giva bort större rätt än den själv har. Med innebörd att politisk genom påstådd lag är olag. Ej lag. När det amerikanska systemet tillämpas enligt hur det är skapat, dvs. när det tillämpas lagligt utan förräderi, är det domstolens skyldighet att tolka om en påstådd lag är lag, vilket den enligt Marbury v. Madison inte är om den bryter mot konstitutionen och vilket den enligt de gamla svenska Olaus Petris domarregler inte är om den inte är för vårt bästa och inte heller om den ger bort rättigheter vi ej har att ge. För om du inte har rätt att styra mig kan du inte ge bort rätt till en politruk att skriva påstådd lag som gör det. Så en sådan påstådd lag är olag. Inte lag.

"It has always been between unalienable rights that are only recognized as already existing and thus not given by documents vs. that in practice only what is defined exists, or positive law / socialist law.

Note that the collectivists have wanted to steal everything since at least the 1960s. Read at The Crisis of the 1970s in Human Rights In Sweden: The Breakthrough of an Idea by Jacob W. F. Sundberg, OHIO STATE LAW JOURNAL Vol. 47:951 1986, but the whole text is really important for Swedish contemporary history. Find it from <http://blog.lege.net/?/469-Det-finns-ingen-preskriptionstid-foer-slaveri..html#c2879> #2.

“Swedish political leadership and the philosophy inaugurated by Hågerström: “Big Brother's Grandpa” 79 as he has been labeled. When, during the first decades of this century, Hågerström developed the philosophy that was to evolve into the Uppsala School, the benches in the hall were filled by the future leadership of the Social Democratic Party. A. V. Lundstedt made the school renowned for the manifesto that “rights do not exist.” The usefulness of this philosophy to a political party which wanted to socialize the means of production in society became evident among the Socialists during the 1920s; and it was put to extensive use in their political campaigns, in particular in 1928 when their opponents chose the protection of property for their political platform. “You must understand, that the talk about a new statute being capable of violating the right of property is as meaningless as a parrot's babble” was a famous line of Lundstedt, coined for the fight. 80

Armed with this notion, the Social Democratic Party, which beginning in 1933 came to rule Sweden for almost half a century, set out to achieve socialization by legislatively voiding the contents of the notion of property. This policy, called "the socialization of functions" (funktionssocialism), only took away the functions of ownership and left the empty notion where it lay, the point being that no compensation was necessary. One of the masterminds behind this secret marriage was indeed Professor Östen Undén, who succeeded in redefining the right of ownership in such a way that the bureaucrats could handle it unhampered by the fact that philosophically it was meaningless.

To the bureaucrats too, the secret marriage was most beneficial. In the West, the notion of a right was coupled with the individual, not with the state; and rights emphasized personal initiative, not public organization. The Socialist view emphasized the latter, presupposing a positive role for government. A massive governmental involvement in all areas of society was required if one were to turn employment, health care, housing, old age, and disability pensions into some kind of "rights."<sup>10</sup>

If there are no rights and the law is what the legislator decides, then the legislator decides without you having any say in it that the law is that you must be exterminated, if that is the case, as it now appears to be.

The socialists want to rule with “law” as a tool (Rule BY Law) while societies built from law (Rule OF Law) limit what power can do.

We see how “nice” THAT is. They never acknowledge their genocides, “it wasn’t real socialism” &#128579;.”

I see a whole lot of potential in this together with the 17 U.S. bases in Sweden and other parts of this document where it even applies to being invited to the country. — LegeNet.

Paul Schmidt's (@Sapioplex on Truth Social & &#120143;) argument, which John (@JFANON on Truth Social, @JF_Anon on &#120143;) agrees with, is that the military is very precise in enforcing the law, and monitors the civilian institutions in a situation of MILITARY GOVERNMENT. If the civilians do not uphold the law, they are subject to military law. They can make exceptions to civilian law out of necessity, so for example, a number of criminals in the judicial system could be publicly executed for their crimes out of military necessity, and after that everyone there would probably be very careful not to cheat. Paul Schmidt also mentioned in the above conversation how a few public executions of lawyers would make the rest stop committing crimes.
